

A Special In Top Coats.

The weights are medium and light; the colors are the popular Tan; every one is of All-Wool Cloth.....$6

Overcoats as low as $4 and as high, if you call it high for world's best, as $15, include something for every taste, no matter how exacting.

The Winter Suits call for unusual mention, too--$4 to $15. We'll say more about them another time.

Magnets for Saturday's Trade.

All-Silk Ties, 9c.
Lawn Handkerchiefs, 2c.

American Web Suspenders, 9c.
Pure Fur Alpine Hats, 59c.

Men's Wool Pants, 88c.

Men's Solid Leather Tan Shoes, $1.48.

Boys' Fast-Black Stockings, 5c.

Men's Fleece-Lined Shirts and Drawers, the 50c. kind, 25c.

THE GLOBE BROAD AND SEVENTH STS.,

OUR SUPREME COURT.

(CONTINUED FROM SEVENTH PAGE.)

sary to their complete enjoyment remain laid out.

The decree for appellee for the balance of the purchase money is affirmed.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

Pennybacker vs. Maupin. Affirmed. Opinion by Harrison, J.

In this case he conveyed his undivided interest in remainder to Sipe, trustee, to secure creditors. Soon thereafter his mother, the appellee, died, leaving ownership of the estate in part to Sipe, and in the balance; and further, that by parol contract she had become the owner of her son's interest in the remainder—the consideration being a transfer to him of two bonds of D. Pennybacker, amounting to $2,000, and that the bonds so given were used by him in payment for a farm upon which he resided. Appellee alleges that the bonds were a gift—and if not a gift, the implied contract was long delayed by the statute.

Brett vs. Matthew. Circuit Court of Faquier county. Appeal awarded Bond, $300.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company vs. Jennings. Circuit Court of Fluvanna County. Writ of error and supersedeas, Bond, $1,000.

Houck, et al., vs. Woodson's Administrator. Circuit Court of Rockingham county. Bond, $150. Awarded.

Covington vs. Griffin's Administrator. Circuit Court of Culpeper County. Appeal and supersedeas, Bond, $1,000.

Wade vs. Jessie, et al. Circuit Court of Lee County. Appeal and supersedeas, Bond, $300.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company vs. Jennings. Circuit Court of Fluvanna County. Writ of error and supersedeas, Bond, $1,000.

Harrison vs. Garnett. Circuit Court of Rockingham county. Appeal and supersedeas, Bond, $1,000.

Harrison vs. Commonwealth. County Court of Accomac. Writ of error and supersedeas.

Eddy vs. Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company. Circuit Court of Lee county. Appeal refused.

Adams vs. Miller. Circuit Court of Russell county. Appeal refused.

Fanning vs. Fanning. Circuit Court of Bland county. Appeal refused.

Waller vs. New River Mining Company. Circuit Court of Wythe county. Writ of error refused.

Wilson vs. Wilson. Circuit Court of Henry county. Appeal refused.

City of Richmond vs. Curry, et al. Law and Equity Court, city of Richmond. Appeal refused.

Anderson vs. Commonwealth. County Court of Pittsylvania. Writ of error refused.

Shaffer vs. Advance. Writ of error refused.

General Young said that immediately after the Guasima fight he had looked over the ground towards Caney, and had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards occupied it. "I then," said General Young, "asked permission to go over to see the ground, saying I should like to get it for our own troops, to which General Wheeler assented."

In accordance with this arrangement, he moved out at 5 o'clock next morning, to fight the battle of Guasima, sending the volunteers, the Rough Riders, by one road and the regulars by another.

NO GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NO AID FROM CUBANS.

In reply to a question as to what aid he had secured from the Cubans in this fight, he replied, "None whatever."

SHAFTER OPPOSED TO ADVANCE.

General Young said that immediately after the Guasima fight he had looked over the ground towards Caney, and had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards he had General Wheeler that he was confident he could take the place that night with his brigade, if allowed to do so.

General Wheeler had replied that his orders from General Shafter were not to advance without notifying him, and that he would notify the General of his (General Young's) wishes. It had not been heard that anything more officially in regard to the matter.

With this, General Young concluded the matter.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

GENERAL YOUNG'S TESTIMONY.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough Riders, he said that they were allowed to be ambuscaded was due, he said, "entirely to the demoralized report of the regiment, who had left the service soon afterwards."

General Young said he had occupied the enemy's camp that day—"and it was a very good camp," he concluded, naively.

NOT GUASIMA SURPRISE.

Head said that there was no surprise in this fight, and no ambuscade, as had been reported. He had reconnoitered the Spanish camp with a glass for half an hour before the fight began, and he had attacked the Spaniards and not the Spaniards him. Speaking of the Rough